The world's population of English speakers in the third-largest population is the Philippines.

Fun Fact:

Filipino in 5-Minutes

Panagbenga: Farewell, goodbye Magkano po? How much is this?
Masarap: Delicious
Mabuti! I'm fine
Kamusta! How are you?
Salamat: Thank you
Magandang umaga: Good morning

Do you recognize any of these dialects? Filipinos also have the names of ethnic groups that speak them.

Major Languages

Hundreds more dialects. The government recognizes only 13 of these languages.

There are thirteen languages in the Philippines that have over a million speakers, with although English is also taught.

Language alone with English. Tagalog, or Filipino, is the official language and in 1973 became the official language. English was introduced and in 1935 made an official language. When the USA took control, Spanish was also introduced. When the USA took control, Spanish was also introduced.
work to the Philippines. Companies now outsource many major Australian jobs and research assistance assistance, IT, and design work; call centre companies, doing jobs such as virtual providing projects for international call centres, Filipino university students are working remotely. At the same time, work and the Philippines has become the capital

Outsourcing Work

There is a growing middle and upper class in the Philippines. These city dwellers live in apartments, or In some cases, work in fast food hotels and many households don't have access to clean water.

The Philippines are in the midst of a massive urbanization. Over 70% of people in Manila live in less than 30% of the land in the Because of the rapid urbanization and the pressure on space, many people live in what are referred to as City Living

Godparents are not unusual for three generations of family to live together.

A problem in overcrowding is a People live in the cities, where many jobs do not provide enough space for families and children need to live together.

DAILY LIFE